

MUCH LOVED MISSING CAT

Name: Cal

Last Seen: June 27th

Area: Wolfrey Avenue, between Broadview and Bowden

I adopted Cal at the beginning of my last year of University in 2015, and brought him back with me to Toronto when I moved home this past year. He escaped roughly 2 weeks ago through the back door of our home over on Wolfrey Avenue, and because he doesn't know the area very well, we're not sure he'll be able to find his way back to us.

He's a relatively tiny, adult male, long-haired orange tabby, with an adorable face, a missing upper canine, and a bit of an attitude.

Before being rescued he was wild for a few years, so he's very skiddish and doesn't like to be picked up, so if you see him, it's best to try and calmly lure him (he responds well to the sound of shaken dry food) and then grab him if he gets close.

He won't be wearing a collar, because the 11 times we tried to put one on him, he found a way to remove it. But he did have a loving family, and a home we hope he finds a way to return to!

He does have a microchip though, so veterinary clinics and the Humane Society are able to scan and identify him.

If you think you've seen him around your area, or if found, please call 647-654-0729
